NEW PAGE - UNDERWATER TREADMILL (HYDROTHERAPY)

WHAT TO EXPECT

Your Pet's First Session

Calm, gentle, and always at your pet's pace. Most animals warm up to the water within minutes.

1

Holistic Assessment

Your integrative vet reviews history, conducts a gait and mobility evaluation, and designs a personalized aquatic protocol.

2

Tank Introduction

Your pet is gently guided into the tank as water rises to the therapeutic level. A therapist is always hands-on throughout.

3

Active Session

Belt speed and water level are adjusted for your pet's specific needs. Sessions last 30–40 minutes.

PET PARENT STORIES

Paws on the Treadmill, Tails in the Air

"After Biscuit's TPLO surgery, the surgeon said he'd be limping for months. After six underwater treadmill sessions at Healing Paws, he was walking normally. We were blown away."

— Maria T., Labrador mom · Fort Lauderdale

★★★★★

"Our 14-year-old golden couldn't climb stairs anymore. Three weeks of aquatic therapy and she's back on the bed every night. I genuinely didn't think that was possible."

— James R., senior dog dad · Boca Raton

1. Does my pet need to know how to swim?

Not at all. The underwater treadmill is VERY different from a pool — your pet walks or trots on a belt, and the water level is adjusted so they can keep their head comfortably above water.

Our team supports and guides every pet, and many dogs who dislike water become enthusiastic treadmill walkers within their first session. We ALWAYS utilize positive reinforcement (and LOVE to use treats!).

2. How soon after surgery can my pet start?

This depends on the procedure and your surgeon's clearance, but many dogs begin aquatic rehab within 10–14 days post surgery.

Early movement in water is shown to significantly reduce muscle atrophy and shorten total recovery time. We coordinate directly with your surgeon.

3. How many sessions will my pet need?

Acute post-surgical cases typically need 8–12 sessions over 4–6 weeks. Chronic conditions like arthritis often benefit from ongoing monthly – twice monthly maintenance sessions after an initial series. Your holistic vet will reassess progress regularly and adjust the plan accordingly.

4. Is underwater treadmill therapy safe for cats?

Yes — we treat cats with neurological conditions, post-surgical recovery, and obesity using our underwater treadmill. Feline sessions require a different approach (slower acclimation, shallower water levels, and an exceptionally patient therapist), but the physiological benefits are equally powerful for cats.

5. Can underwater therapy be combined with laser therapy?

Absolutely — and this combination is one of our most popular holistic protocols. Cold laser therapy before or after an aquatic session amplifies the anti-inflammatory, pain-relieving, and tissue-healing effects of both modalities. Many of our patients receive combination therapy on the same visit.

IS THE UNDERWATER TREADMILL DIFFERENT FROM TAKING MY DOG TO SWIM IN THE POOL, OCEAN, OR LAKE?

Yes! Our Underwater Treadmill allows for a slowed, low-impact gait which can only be safely achieved in these controlled conditions.

With this therapy, we can improve range of motion (so your pet can jump into your car), decrease pain (so your pet can get up on their own without any help), and retrain gait (so your pet can make it that extra block on their daily walk).

We control the water depth, walking speed of the treadmill, and presence/absence of resistance jets with our Underwater Treadmill.

Homeopathy for Dogs and Cats in Fort Lauderdale

Homeopathy is a complete natural healing system developed over 200 years ago, now widely used for both humans and animals. It's based on the principle that "like cures like" — a substance that causes symptoms in a healthy body can, in highly diluted form, cure those same symptoms in a sick body. The result? Your pet's own healing intelligence is awakened and guided back to balance.

Like cures like

Remedies made from substances that mirror the pet's symptoms trigger natural healing

Highly diluted

Remedies are diluted and succussed, making them potent yet completely non-toxic

Treats the whole pet

Physical symptoms, personality, fears, and history all guide the remedy selection

Minimum dose

The smallest effective dose is used to gently stimulate healing without overwhelming
